Five years working with people, customer service to get me through college. A few months building things with Claude, so I can participate in the modern economic frontier. From the people part: the restaurant where I worked has 25+ Google reviews that mention me by name as an especially polite and helpful worker. From the Claude part: an automated jobsearch pipeline that scans target companies and surfaces the best-fit postings, scored on a rubric I designed. It's how I found this one. Other projects: a non-evil sort puzzle (no ads, no dark patterns, 100 levels) and a position-neutral civic tracker that shows constituents what their federal representatives are doing this week. I am currently living in Atlanta, and am willing and able to relocate.

PROJECTS

None of these are human coded. These are proof I can tell Claude Code to build something, and keep at it until it's built the way I want it.

Claude Powered Jobhunt Pipeline | Scans ~40 target companies per run, scores job descriptions against my personal rubric, surfaces the top 5 with ratings and application angles. 20+ runs in so far, each producing a dossier and a retro with ways to improve the process. Tools: Claude, Nimbalyt, Playwright MCP, Python, YAML.

Top Shelf Puzzle Game | lux-username.github.io/top-shelf | What if a mobile game was nonevil? No in-app purchases, no limited lives; free from dubious and extractive tricks. Not yet on any app store, but can be added to home screen as if it were. 100 levels, each designed to be engaging and tested to be solvable.

Constituent Rep Tracker | reptracker2.vercel.app | Shows US constituents their federal representatives' upcoming committee decisions in time to act. Position-neutral, procedural only, and built carefully to avoid misinforming anyone.

WORK EXPERIENCE

Atlanta Bread Company | Sales Associate & Cashier | Woodstock, GA | 2023-2026

- Store's go-to trainer for new hires; run each new employee's first week or two on the floor. A couple of trainees were on a promotion track and made shift lead on schedule.
- Helped customers with basic technical tasks (loyalty app, contactless payment, store wifi).
- Mentioned by name in 25+ positive Google reviews for helpfulness and attention to detail.

H&M | Sales Associate | North Point Mall | 2021-2022

- Managed inventory and visual merchandising.
- Occasionally thwarted the schemes of a shoplifting & false returns ring.

DoorDash | Delivery Driver | Atlanta Metro | 2021-2026

- Maintained perfect rating on customer satisfaction.
- Operated fully independently: self-directed scheduling, routing, and customer communication with no oversight across multiple years.

EDUCATION

BA, English | Kennesaw State University | 2025

CERTIFICATES

Claude 101 | Anthropic Skilljar. I learned more from a few months building random Claude Code projects on my own than from this certification, but I needed something legible to Applicant Tracking Systems.
